7. By striking out Regulation 6, and substituting therefor the following:—

"GRADE OF OIL FUEL.

It shall be the duty of every person supplying oil fuel for use in any oil-burner or oil-burning equipment to ascertain the correct grade of oil fuel for which the oil-burner or oil-burning equipment has been approved, and no person shall supply for use in any oil-burner or oil-burning equipment oil fuel of a grade other than that for which it has been approved. No person shall supply for use or use any crank-case oil as oil fuel in any oil-burner."

8. By striking out clause (f) of Regulation 7, and substituting therefor the following:—

This chimney in the case of industrial plants may be of sheet metal of sufficient weight and thickness to form a rigid stack. Under all other conditions the chimney shall conform to the requirements of the Regulations governing the Construction, Installation, and Maintenance of Chimneys, etc., made pursuant to the 'Fire Marshal Act.'"

"AUTOMATIC SAFETY CONTROLS.

"(b.) Every domestic oil-burner shall be equipped with all the automatic safety controls with which it was approved by the Testing Laboratories to which it was submitted. These shall govern the flow of oil, the temperature of the heating equipment, the temperature of the stack, and any other temperature desired and shall be positive in action."

12. By striking out clauses (b) and (c) of Regulation 11, and substituting therefor the following:—

"APPROVAL BY LABORATORIES.

"(b.) Every range oil-burner shall bear the approval of the Canadian Standards Association, the Underwriters Laboratories, or other recognized authority acceptable to the Fire Marshal, and no range oil-burner shall be installed, operated, or used unless the oil fuel used therein is of a specific gravity and specification approved by the Canadian Standards Association or the Underwriters Laboratories.

"VENTILATION AND AIR-SUPPLY.

"(c.) In the case of natural draught range oil-burners positive bottom ventilation and adequate air-supply shall be provided by permanently securing the air-regulating device on the front of the range or furnace in which the range oil-burner is installed in an open position, and all smoke-pipes, flues, and flue passages shall be thoroughly cleaned before the range oil-burner is installed. No smoke-pipe damper which cuts off more than eighty per cent. of the smoke-pipe area shall be installed or maintained."

13. By inserting the words "vacuum-control feed" between the words "no" and "supply-tank" in the third sentence of clause (a) of Regulation 12; and by striking out the last sentence in said clause (a), and substituting therefor the following:—

"SUPPLY-TANKS.

"Every gravity-feed supply-tank having a capacity of not more than six gallons shall be constructed of terne plate metal of not less than 24-gauge or ordinary sheet iron of not less than 20-gauge B.S.G., and shall be rigidly mounted on an incombustible stand and shall be an integral part of the system. The supply opening to such tank shall be not less than four inches nor more than six inches in diameter and shall be covered by an approved tight-fitting cover in which there is a breather-hole of one-sixteenth of an inch in diameter. This cover shall be secured to the tank by a small chain. Unless otherwise approved this gravity tank shall be located not less than two feet from the burner.

"Every gravity-feed supply-tank having a capacity of more than six gallons shall be made of galvanized or wrought iron of not less than 16-gauge B.S.G. and shall have all seams riveted and caulked, braze welded or electrically welded so as to be mechanically and hydraulically tight. This tank shall be equipped with an outside vent-pipe of not less than three-quarters of an inch internal diameter which shall rise to a height of not less than twelve feet above the ground-level and shall be equipped with a return bend. This vent shall not come closer than three feet to any door, window, or other opening to the building. The opening for filling shall be on the upper side of the tank and shall be equipped with a screw plug or cap which, except when the tank is being filled, shall be kept tightly screwed in place. The internal diameter of this fill opening shall be not less than two inches.

"When oil fuel is filled into a supply-tank from an oil-tank wagon it shall be done by an approved hose equipped with an approved automatic shut-off nozzle so adjusted that when the operator's hand is removed the flow of oil fuel will be cut off, or by means of an approved can. When oil fuel is delivered in drums the liquids shall be pumped from the drum to the supply-tank by an approved pump. No oil fuel shall be delivered from the drum to the supply-tank by means of open can or bucket."

14. By striking out clauses (c), (d), and (e) of Regulation 12, and substituting therefor the following:—

"LEVELLING OF OIL-BURNERS AND CONTROLS.

"(c.) In the case of shell or wick type range oil-burners the oil-burner base shall be made and rigidly set at the proper level by reinforcing the bottom of the range by a piece of sheet metal not less than eight inches wide, ten inches long, and one-eighth of an inch thick, held in place by the burner bolts which shall be secured in place by lock-nuts.

"In the case of vacuum-control feed the oil-fuel flow-level shall be so made as to permit the control-valve to be kept fully open for twenty minutes without overflowing the burner base. When the proper level is secured by adjusting the oil-burner base and the supply-tank stand, both of these shall be securely set and locked in position.

"In the case of gravity-feed oil-burners which have not had the constant-level valves set at the factory the levelling shall be done as above.

"STORAGE-TANKS.

"(d.) No storage-tank shall be located above the lowest floor inside any building, nor shall any such storage-tank exceeding fifty-five gallons in capacity be installed or located inside any building, nor shall any other full or empty storage tank or drum having a capacity of more than six gallons be permitted in the building. In the case of a single residence dwelling this storage-tank may be installed in the basement. In the case of multiple residence dwellings no storage-tank shall be located or installed inside the building but shall be outside thereof. They shall not exceed fifty-five gallons in capacity and may be installed in a separate building made for the purpose and located not less than fifteen feet from said multiple residence building. These tanks shall be mounted on incombustible stands and be equipped with a vent and fill pipe as hereinbefore set out.

"For the purpose of transferring oil-fuel from any storage-tank to any supply-tank an approved pump which shall be deemed to be a component part of the oil-burning equipment shall be used. If the supply-tank is so mounted as to be immovable the oil fuel shall be conveyed in an approved closed metal can. No faucet, spigot, or other gravity-flow device and no siphon shall be used for the purpose of drawing oil fuel from the storage-tank.

"LOCATION OF SUPPLY-TANKS.

"(e.) No supply-tank for the purpose of supplying oil fuel to an oil-burning range having a capacity in excess of six gallons shall be allowed in any multiple residence building and no supply-tank of any kind shall be allowed above the second story of any such building.

"Supply-tanks exceeding six gallons but not exceeding fifty-five gallons in capacity used to supply oil to range oil-burners in ranges in single residence buildings shall be mounted on rigid metal stands on the outside of the building. These stands shall be constructed from solid foundations on the ground in such a manner that the supply-tank shall be not less than six inches from the wall at its nearest point. The tank shall be equipped with a vent and fill pipe as hereinbefore set out. It also shall be equipped with an approved shut-off valve where the oil-feed line leaves the tank. The oil fuel shall be fed to the oil-burner only through an approved constant-level valve. The difference in height between the supply-tank and the constant-level valve shall not exceed ten feet.

"AUTOMATIC PUMPS.

"(f.) Approved automatic electric pumps may be used in connection with range oil-burners to supply them with oil fuel from storage-tanks located either in the basement, outside the building, or buried underground. In the two former cases the storage-tank, which shall not exceed fifty-five gallons in capacity, shall be installed in full compliance with section (d) of Regulation 12 above. Underground tanks shall be installed in full compliance with Regulation 7 of these regulations."

15. By striking out clause (a) of Regulation 13, and substituting therefor the following:—

"(a.) Not more than one range oil-burner of any type shall be installed in any furnace."

16. By striking out clauses (c) and (d) of Regulation 13, and substituting therefor the following:—

"MOUNTING, CONSTRUCTION, PIPING, ETC., FOR SUPPLY-TANKS.

"(c.) No supply-tank having a capacity of more than six gallons used in connection with a range oil-burner installed in a furnace shall be located above the lowest floor of any building. This supply-tank shall be made and equipped in full compliance with the requirements of section (a) of Regulation 12 above. It shall be mounted on a rigid metal stand and the difference between the height of the supply-tank and the constant-level valve shall not exceed ten feet.

"No supply-tank having a capacity of more than six gallons used in connection with a range oil-burner installed in a furnace in a multiple residence building shall be located in the building. It shall be installed outside the building in full compliance with the regulations governing storage-tanks for said buildings hereinbefore laid down. The difference in height between the tank and the constant-level valve shall not exceed ten feet.

"(d.) The following safety combustion controls shall be installed in connection with any range oil-burner installed in any furnace: An approved constant-level control-valve, an electro-magnetic high-low control-valve, a heat-limiting switch on the air or water of the furnace, and a room thermostat. In the case of electric hot wire or city gas pilot ignition a stack lockout switch shall also be installed. All these shall be mounted neatly and in a workmanlike manner."
